About QSCC

Charity Registry Number
CC34066

The Queen Street Cricket Club (QSCC) is a charitable organisation that raises funds for low-decile youth cricket in New Zealand. It encourages school children across NZ to play cricket and develop the attributes of sportsmanship and fair play by providing facilities, equipment, tuition and coaching.

Established in 1989, the QSCC has donated in excess of $400,000 to individuals, schools, and organisations throughout NZ. It is based on similar organisations in Australia and the UK. The charity has a few sources of funding. The traditional source is derived from the NZ cricket team. In a test match, whenever a player records a "Duck", the QSCC membership group of 250 strong cricketing tragics are 'f ned' $5 each as their membership donation (Chris Martin is a Hall-of-Famer with 36 test ducks). With the strength in the NZ lower order in recent times, this source of funds has been harder to come by.

In addition, funds are generated from investment income, periodic donations from individuals and larger charities. The annual golf day rounds out the balance of monies raised to fund the QSCC's charitable pursuits.

Funds raised are distributed throughout NZ in the form of;

- Individual scholarships to up-and-coming 1st XI cricketers from low decile schools. This includes one-on-one coaching and new gear.
- Grants for low decile schools, usually for facility repairs and team bags.
- Helping to fund the CPA's "Hooked on Cricket" (HOC) program.

Hooked on Cricket

'Introducing cricket to kids from non-traditional schools and communities.'

Hooked on Cricket was established in 2005, by the members of the Cricket Players' Association. Players from the mens domestic cricket teams relish the opportunity to get involved with the programme and to help children develop new skills and to inspire them toward success in sport and life. Were it not for Hooked-on-Cricket these children would not even think about playing cricket, let alone playing it.

Tournament Days

Six Hooked on Cricket tournaments take place across the country (Papatoetoe, Hamilton East, Porirua, Flaxmere, Christchurch and Dunedin) with eight lower decile schools invited to attend.

Coaching Sessions

A series of Hooked on Cricket coaching sessions are coordinated by CPA members, teaching core cricket skills and encouraging those kids who are playing regular school or club cricket.
